

WAR'S GREATEST SAGA

When the final history of the war is told, one of its greatest chapters will describe that branch of the service totally new to war—the Air Transport command. Transporting prime ministers and presidents, wounded men, jeeps and Pat Hurley's Cadillac over oceans and deserts has now become commonplace news to the American public. But behind that commonplace news is a thrilling story of painstaking, back-breaking pioneering.

Here are some things few people know about the Air Transport command:

Most used air route in the world is not between Washington and New York, not between New York and Chicago, but over "The Hump" between China and India. . . . Traffic over this world's highest mountain range, the Himalayas, is so heavy that planes travel at different altitudes so there will be no collisions. One plane will have orders to fly at 22,000 feet, another at 23,000, and so on. Three or four different air routes are used across the Hump, also to avoid collisions.

Next most heavily used air route is across the North Atlantic. The ATC sends a plane across the Atlantic every 58 seconds. That's about as fast as traffic moves on the Pennsylvania railroad between New York and Philadelphia, busiest rail line in the world. . . . The ATC is now flying returning troops across the Atlantic at a rate of 50,000 per month. . . . For years, ATC pilots have been briefed on how to land on the difficult airports of Greenland, Iceland or China. Now the ATC has the tremendous thrill of briefing pilots on arriving at home ports—Boston, Portland, Long Island. . . . Pilots say that no briefing was ever more welcome.

From Battle Fronts.

More than 220,000 wounded men have been carried in ATC planes away from the battle front. During the early stages of Okinawa fighting, planes swooped down on makeshift runways, taxied up to ambulances, took off right under the noses of Jap guns. Stretchers were loaded aboard while the planes refueled. . . . One big ATC job has been getting crashed fliers out of the Himalayas. Amazing fact is that 75 per cent are saved. . . . Lt. Gen. Harold George, boss of the ATC, realized in advance that crashes would be heavy over the Hump, so men were given special training on how to live in the jungles. They were even taken to jungle outposts to get familiar with the jungle before they hopped. . . . Every plane flying the Hump has a small tin chest (with its own parachute) containing medicine, snake-bite, antidote, water purifier, concentrated food, signal flares, mirrors, mosquito nets, etc. This chest is kept near the plane's door. If the crew has to jump, the chest is kicked out before the last man leaves the plane. . . . In the jungle, crews are taught to stay where they are until sighted by rescue planes which signal instructions as to where they can be picked up. . . . Natives are usually friendly and the chances of getting rescued from the jungle are far better than if a flier drops over the desert or in the sea.

Japs Shot Down Many.

The Japs shot down many ATC planes early in the war by painting their DC-4s with U. S. insignia. . . . Flying up close, the Japs waited until they had perfect targets, then fired. . . . U. S. planes had to be repaired.

Before Pearl Harbor, Roosevelt ordered special fighter planes rushed to the British in Egypt where Rommel had General Montgomery's back to the wall. . . . However, fighter planes couldn't make the long trek across Africa without refueling and there was no airport in the heart of the continent. . . . One day an American engineer was dropped off a plane almost in the center of Africa, in French territory not far from the Sudan. He had his pockets stuffed with money, and his head stuffed with ideas. That was about all. He also had instructions to build an airport. . . . Six weeks later the ATC came back and he had a 4,500-foot sodded runway, in fairly good shape. He had drafted most of the camels and most of the natives in that part of Africa and paid them plenty to do the job. Fighter planes immediately began crossing to the Egyptian front and the British army staged its comeback. . . . Today the French are making diplomatic inquiries as to this airport, apparently with a view to taking it over.

Fifty Million Letters.

Fifty million letters were flown by the ATC to Europe in April. This peak load has now dropped off due to troop transfers out of Europe, but the ATC has been the largest mail carrier in history. . . . Also it runs the world's largest hotel chain. It must be prepared to handle 1,000 men a night at Natal, Brazil, also feed them. ATC hotels are scattered all over the world to handle ferrying and combat pilots. . . . When the weather is bad, hotel facilities overflow.

Campbell P.-T. A. Units to Hold Study Classes

Campbell Union High and Grammar School P.T.A. units have begun a study class course on War Emergency Food Preservation under Mrs. Winifred Jecker of the Agricultural Extension Service. Spoilage of foods and their proper preservation was discussed at the meeting held in June. Samples of spoiled pack were on display. A demonstration was given in the use of honey and syrup for the conservation of dwindling sugar supplies. Fruit packed in each kind of syrup was sampled.

Study classes under Mrs. Jecker were started last summer and proved so interesting that they are being conducted again so that those who could not attend last year may now avail themselves of the opportunity.

The next class will be held this coming Tuesday, July 17, from 9:30 to 12, at the First Methodist church. It will be a frozen food demonstration. It is urged that all interested in the preservation and use of foods make a special effort to attend this meeting, when requests may be presented and plans for future classes and topics will be outlined. It is imperative that these requests be presented at this Tuesday meeting, as the further continuance of the program will depend upon the interest the community takes in the program.

Philbert Cardoza Is Stationed At Midway

Midway Islands—Since the battle of Midway these islands in the Pacific have been transformed into one of the most impregnable bastions assisting the Fleet in its air and sea war against the Japanese. One of the men stationed here is Philbert J. Cardoza, storekeeper second class, U.S.N.R. of Campbell, California.

Cardoza entered the Navy in July, 1942, and has been overseas for 13 months. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cardoza make their home at 725 McCoy Avenue, Campbell.

Parker House Opens Here

One more establishment has been added to the chain of Parker Houses, that of the seventh, which opened Friday in the attractively remodeled building on the corner of Campbell and Railroad avenues.

Edward Wood, discharged from the Army after nine years in service, is manager and states that he will keep up the high standard of business as conducted in the other six stores. Managers of the Parker Houses are discharged veterans and take great pride in the organization. Future plans call for a neon sign which will add to the attractiveness of the corner.

Mr. Wood was married to Miss Evelyn Tonelli of Los Gatos on May 13, and they will reside in San Jose at present.

Protests Kill Proposed Local Police District

The proposed police protection district which was on the agenda of the county board of supervisors' meeting Monday received no favorable action after reading of a number of written protests.

The consensus of opinion at a public meeting held here last week was in opposition, after the expense of a properly staffed district was made clear by county officers.

The assessed valuation of even the larger district would have made a heavy tax levy necessary, and after the districts that petitioned to be excluded were cut off, the cost was prohibitive.

Supervisor Joseph McKinnon, who had attended the meeting here, moved to end the proceedings.

The county boundary commission is trying to discourage the multiplicity of special districts, with varied boundaries, in the county as it adds very materially to the expense of figuring the taxes of property lying wholly or partially in several of these districts.

The opinion expressed by many of our citizens is that incorporation is the solution for Campbell.

Collections and Credit Topic at Luncheon Club

GERMAN WEREWOLVES

Although news about the activities of German werewolves has been scant, there are indications that this type of resistance to Allied occupation of the Reich is increasing.

American army cars are now reported to be equipped with blades for cutting wires stretched across roads at night by the Nazi underground. At least one American soldier has been reported murdered, and the bomb which exploded a few weeks ago in a building occupied by Allied authorities was hardly the work of small boys.

As time goes on and the Germans further recover from the stunning effects of defeat, Nazi underground activities may become still more intense. It may require FBI technique, rather than ordinary police methods, to keep it at a minimum. But there should be no hesitancy about dealing aggressively, instead of passively, with crime in Germany. There are undoubtedly many would-be fuehrers on the loose who will be active in trying to make the work of occupation forces not only disagreeable but dangerous. The more of these that are eliminated the fewer aspirants there will be for the role that Hitler once portrayed.

Keeping our troops in Germany over a long period of time will not be easy either for the Germans or for our soldiers, but it is one of the problems of victory and is one of the best means of preventing a revival of militarism.

FREEDOM'S OUTPOSTS

Back in Honolulu after touring air bases in the Pacific, including the Marianas and Okinawa, General Arnold, commander of United States Army Air Forces, declared that the future peace of the world—and the fate of mankind—may well depend on this country being realistic and retaining for our future defense the island air strips won by our fighting men at tragic cost.

"My trip," said General Arnold, "has convinced me that key islands in the Marshalls, Palaus, Volcanoes, Bonins and Ryukyus are vital to America's strategic defense policy. If we are to have a striking power, our air force must be in a position to carry our attacks home to the heart of any aggressor who may threaten us in future years. No longer can we rely on passive defense and mere bases at home."

For the sake of humanity, as well as the protection of the United States, General Arnold declared it absolutely essential that the island air bases be retained by this country, and added: "Their use by the United States must be unrestricted. I have come back convinced that we must have a bridge across the Pacific."

Any thinking person, who recognizes the devastation and total destruction which some future enemy, equipped with planes similar to our Superfortresses, could rain down on American cities—unless we have an air police force stationed in the Pacific to guard against such an eventuality—certainly will concur in General Arnold's conclusion. There can be no doubt that California narrowly escaped such devastating raids in this war, and the people on the West Coast should give united and all-out support to the move to retain and equip our island bases as a guarantee against surprise attack—and as freedom's outposts in the far reaches of the Pacific.

Send Christmas Mail Early

Navy Department postal authorities are encouraging the mailing of overseas gift packages throughout the year. Although the War Department advised that the mailing period for Christmas parcels to army personnel will be the same as last year—September 15 to October 15—there is no restricted mailing period for the personnel of the Navy, Marine, and Coast Guard. All Christmas parcels should, however, be mailed not later than October 15 to afford some degree of probability of delivery prior to Christmas day.

"Carmen Jones" at S. J. Aud July 29

The fabulous Billy Rose "Carmen Jones", which is the largest show on tour, plays a matinee and evening performance in San Jose on Sunday, July 29, with the original company which for two seasons was the top attraction on Broadway.

Billy Rose, who is responsible for the lavish production of "Carmen Jones", wears the mantle of Barnum, Belasco, and Ziegfield, the three great American showmen who preceded him. All his life Billy Rose has reached out for "super" effects and achievements. He was Bernard Baruch's private secretary in World War I. He was a songwriter, writing such smash hits as "Barney Google". He produced "Jumbo" at the Hippodrome Theatre, the Texas Centennial, the Cleveland, New York and San Francisco Aquacades; he designed, created and owns the Diamond Horseshoe Night Club, and now his "Carmen Jones" has become internationally famous as the great show of the century.

Tickets for "Carmen Jones" in San Jose may be secured from the Denny-Watrous box office, San Jose auditorium.

Campbell Man At Deployment Camp

With U.S. Forces in France—Sergeant W. Clark, son of Mrs. Irene Clark of Campbell, is a maintenance specialist at Camp Boston, one of 17 Assembly Area Command camps erected in Northeastern France for the redeployment of American troops in Europe. Sgt. Clark is a member of the 398th Engineer General Service Regiment which saw front-line action as a provisional infantry unit when called upon to defend a Moselle River sector during the Battle of the Bulge last winter. He has been in this theatre since August 1943.

The unit will supervise all maintenance work at Camp Boston a vast tent city covering two square miles of rolling fields south of the French village of St. Hilaire. The camp accommodates 15,000 troops, the equivalent of an infantry division, while being checked and processed for redeployment.

To remove brown stains from teacups, Westinghouse home economists wipe with a little baking soda on a damp cloth. Wash in soapy water rinse and dry.

Appreciation by the American Red Cross Blood Donor Service.

In presenting the award before a large audience at a ceremony held in San Francisco, Col. Charles Quigley, director of the service, said that more and more plasma and whole blood is needed as we carry on the war in the Pacific and made a plea for increased participation by all in blood donations.

Piano Recital Shows Talent of Young Artists

A recital of unusual interest was presented recently by pupils from Kathleen S. Bergeron's Piano Studio for Children in Campbell, at the Country Woman's club room in the library building.

These young artists, aged 7 to 12 years, gave ample proof of a well rounded musical education. Their solos, ensemble numbers, their transposing, playing in reverse, playing tunes to which the pupils added accompaniments of their own making, kept the audience interested every minute.

The center part of the program was devoted to things the pupils learn to do besides playing the instrument. The most interesting of these being the playing from manuscript of original compositions written by the pupils.

The abandon with which the pupils play, the easily apparent pleasure they get out of doing all these things, made an evening of enjoyment for both pupils and audience. This was demonstrated by the laughter of the pupils and the generous applause of the audience.

Certificates of Merit were awarded the pupils at the close of the program. Mrs. Bergeron is a member of the Santa Clara Branch of The Music Teachers' Association of California and as such is entitled to award these certificates.

Pupils taking part in this informal recital were:

Ann Bowdoin, Sharon Murdock, Pauline Cleveland, Janet Franceschini, Joline Howard, Sandra Howard, Nelma Kirk, Elizabeth Ribble, Philip Robba, Christine Sells, Alice Smith, Billy Ward, Marcia Ward.

Petite Miss Heather Howard was a demure page girl presenting the programs.

The club room was beautifully decorated with flowers generously donated by Mr. Robert Scholz and the lovely flower arrangements were by Mrs. Virginia Howard and Mrs. Betty Ward.

Dick Gordon.

Dear Sirs:

You may be interested to know that as part of our celebration of VE day we opened a tin of your Fruit Salad which my wife carefully bought and kept since the Munich crisis in 1938.

Many times we wondered if the contents would have lost their excellence and if we were wise in keeping them. But I can assure you that we were thoroughly delighted when we opened them and found that they were as fresh as they would have been if they had been eaten 6½ years ago.

The sight of them on the table was a sheer joy and the eating of them a pure delight.

We are looking forward to the day when we shall be able to buy your product without coupons, points, etc., and trust that that day will not be long delayed.

Yours very truly,
H. C. Duncalf (Signed)

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

The Vineyard

By Idwal Jones

Here is a novel that treats natural happenings naturally instead of dwelling upon the emotions connected with them. Death, marriage, falling in love are not the paramount feelings to be treated. There isn't any human bitterness shown in these pages.

The vineyards were the excitement, the love of their owners. Rare grapes were grown to produce a fine wine to be sipped slowly by the appreciative. There was not an industry to produce cheap, scant-bodied wines to be used by the alcoholic. Some indiscriminate growers with no regard for their product are shown, but on the whole you gain respect for these people.

Tucked away for the night the Book Mark ran across this on one of the pages—"Those twenty barrels of Malbec he would have sold at a price made acceptable by its sprightliness, its bright youth. But Hector had been aware in it of a fine note, a determination, a finish to come with age. Malbec vines were temperamental; they had quirks, they were tricky, they sulked if they were not pruned one way this spring, and quite another way next spring. They were often ungrateful enough to die before their fruits could be gathered."

Added to meeting new people the reader makes his acquaintance with grapes, their foibles and qualities. Refreshment in reading this book will come from knowing of people who are consumed with another love instead of love of self.

Emerson said "A great man scarcely knows how he dines, how he dresses, but without railing or precision his living is natural and poetic."

Who is the Book Mark this week? There are two different writers—becky and marty. Can you detect the writings of each? During July and August try your detective powers and see if you can correctly blame the guilty one for each appearance of the Book Mark. Notify the What Not Library of your guess. At the end of August the person who has been right the greatest number of times will be rewarded with a month's free reading.

George M. Ellison Rites Held July 11

Farewell services were held Wednesday, July 11, for George M. Ellison who passed away Monday in San Jose.

The services were held from the Rutherford funeral home and were conducted by J. W. Knowles, Christian Science Reader, with music by Virginia Rutherford. Interment was in Los Gatos Cemetery.

Mr. Ellison was a native of Lynn, Mass., 63 years of age. During many years of his residence in Campbell he was interested in the hatchery business, operating the attractive Mission hatchery on Winchester road and Rincon avenue.

He opened up a tract on Rincon avenue and sold acre lots to families who would build homes and raise chickens to supply eggs for his hatchery. Later he established another Mission Hatchery just out of Santa Cruz, but for a number of years he had been handicapped by failing eyesight.

Surviving relatives are his wife, Euphemia Ellison of Campbell, daughters Mrs. Nanette Herring of Campbell, and Mrs. Muriel Ulm of Santa Cruz; a sister, Laura Ellison of Amesbury, Mass., and three grand children.

Pfc. Harold Black Escapes Death In Mindanao Battle

With the 24th Infantry AVictoryQ Division on Mindanao—Private First Class Harold R. Black, son of Mrs. Edna Black of Campbell, miraculously escaped a murderous burst of machinegun fire which put six neat double holes into the uniform of a buddy nearby and a seventh into a Bible carried over the heart.

It was during this Victory Division's Corregidor-famed 34th Infantry Regiment's drive to corner stubborn Japanese defenders in the mountains near Dava. Black's squad attacked a hill. Twice the squad had been thrown back by machinegun fire and mortar blasts.

The third charge seemed to promise success. The squad nearly reached the top. Then a machinegun blazed at close range. The bullets streaked past Black so closely that "I could feel the vibration."

The Jap lead struck the fifth man in the skirmish line. Six bullets ripped thru his clothes and he fell to the ground. Black crawled back to assist the fallen comrade. But he found the soldier unhurt. He also found that a seventh enemy bullet had been stopped by a Bible in his comrade's shirt pocket.

"Whew!" said the dogface, and rejoined the fight.

The hill was carried in the fourth assault.
